THE COMMITTEE of POLICE for the town of Stirling, being informed, that Angus Stewart, late Chelsea-pensioner at Rapploch, near Stirling (whose wife was banished the county by the Sheriff, and afterwards whipped through Stirling, as guilty of thieftuous practices, and their son, Archibald Stewart, long confined in prison as accessory in the thefts for which James Miller and Angus Carnegie were sentenced to be hanged, last Circuit, and the whole family, excepting himself, often imprisoned for thieftuous practices) has, by improper means, obtained a certificate from sundry of the inhabitants of this burgh, importing his having behaved honestly: The Committee think it their duty to inform the public, that, from the pre-conceptions taken previous to Miller and Carnegie's trial, they are convinced, that said Angus Stewart was not innocent, being in the knowledge of many improper acts in which his wife, son, and daughters were concerned: And the Committee are resolved to have them apprehended if ever again found in the county; and they appoint this advertisement to be inserted in the Mercury and Advertiser; and appoint it to be signed by our Prefect.

From the ST. LUCIA GAZETTE.

Carriage, May 19. On Friday the 11th instant, between the hours of two and four A. M. the descent with which this island had for several days been menaced by the French, was made in three different bays of Becune, Espérance, and Dauphin, under the direction of the Marquis de Bouille, who landed with the regiment of Auvergnais, commanded by Brigadier Viscount Damas, and immediately took post in the town of Gros Ilet, before day-break, where they surprised the centinel, (who was unfortunately killed in the scuffle) and made prisoners of the sick at the hospital, belonging to the 45th regiment of foot, which they afterwards embarked for Martinique, with necessaries, belonging to the 87th.

After the different passes were secured, and guards placed at all the avenues leading from the town, in order to cut off, effectually, every communication with the Morne Fortune; Major General Turler was dispatched with a flag of truce to Pigeon Island to summons it to surrender, or to expect the utmost severities of the laws of war in case of refusal. The latter alternative was the instantaneous decision of Captain Campbell, of the 87th regiment, who commanded that important post, and who has proved himself deserving of the confidence reposed in him, by having made every possible preparation for a desperate and vigorous defence. This repulse gave the first check to the ardor of the enemy, who had been deceived into a belief, that the whole island would have fallen an easy conquest. The fortunate but accidental arrival of his Majesty's ships the Thetis, Santa Monica, Sybil, and Seigneur sloops of war, afforded an additional security to the island, and well appointed detachments of seamen and marines from each ship, under the command of the Captains John Linzee, Rodney, Smith, and Hichins, were immediately disembarked, and took charge of the Vigie batteries, while others proceeded with the utmost cheerfulness, under the command of Captain R. Linzee to give their assistance on the Morne. On Friday the enemy was employed in cantoning their troops at the several plantations between Dauphin and the country, to Choque, where it was reported they would continue till they were reinforced by the several detachments which were expected from Dominica, St. Vincent's and Grenada, and then proceed to attack the Morne, by a coup de main; the appearance of a formidable fleet, consisting of 15 sail of the line, on the day following, seemed to confirm this opinion, and especially as they bore down as if they intended to anchor in Gros Ilet bay, which they were, however, compelled to abandon, in consequence of a well-directed fire from the battery on Pigeon Island, under the conduct of Lieutenant Miller, of the royal navy, who commanded the seamen, and which forced them to proceed to Choque, and to Anne Tron Gaiçon, where they all anchored.

At five P. M. on the 12th, all the troops which they had landed in Gros Ilet quarter were in motion towards the Carriage, and it was fully expected that a general attack would have been made that night on the Morne, but to the equal astonishment of the British garrison and the French inhabitants, the enemy had embarked all their troops by day-light, and their fleet were standing over to Martinique.

Thus ended an expedition which threatened so much, and which was, probably, undertaken in consequence of the disaffected having informed the Marquis de Bouille, that we were weak and sickly, the contrary of which must certainly have been observed by the officers who were dispatched to reconnoitre our works, or assuredly would not have evacuated the island without making an attempt.

After having described the particulars of this enterprise, it is incumbent on us to declare, that the vigilance of Brigadier General St. Leger in the moment of danger and difficulty, to the various duties of his important trust, and the ardor of our brave troops, could only be equalled by the alacrity with which the merchants, masters of vessels, and their seamen, attended the hill, and resorted to the different posts assigned to them. One soul appeared to animate all ranks of people, and however considerable the force of the enemy might have been, we shall not be reproached with vanity, in asserting that the British flag would never have been struck upon the Morne Fortune while there was a man left to protect it.

We have every reason to believe that our fleet is again to windward, under the command of Admiral Sir George Brydges Rodney, and in a sufficient condition to offer battle to the enemy, should they wish to contend for the sovereignty of these seas; we may therefore venture to congratulate our readers on confidence and security being again restored to this island, especially as we have authority to assure that our gallant fleet has received no material damage, notwithstanding Mont de Grasse had a superiority of seven sail of the line in his late action with Sir Samuel Hood, whose conduct on the above occasion, merits every plaudit that a grateful nation can bestow.

June 2. On Sunday, arrived here an express from Tobago with intelligence of that island being attacked by the French. The express left Tobago the 23d of May, which day the French had made an attempt to get into Scarborough with their shipping, but were driven off and stood towards Sandy Point, where it was imagined they would land. They were perceived on the evening of the 22d, a great way to windward, which caused an alarm to be fired. Their force, from the best accounts we have been able to procure, consists of the Plato 74, Experiment 50, two frigates and a cutter, having on board 1500 troops, the greater part of which are Welch's brigade, all under the command of Mont de Grasse, late Governor of St. Vincent's. Sir George Rodney, who arrived at Barbadoes the 23d ult. with nineteen sail of the line, dispatched on Monday last (30th May) a part of this fleet, with a body of troops to the assistance of Tobago, which would be followed, it was presumed, soon after by Sir George, with the remainder. It is also imagined, that Mont de Grasse is gone thence with his fleet.

June 9. The detachment mentioned in our last to have been sent to the assistance of Tobago returned to Barbadoes without effecting any thing, having perceived the whole of the French fleet off there, in consequence of which, Admiral Rodney, with the whole of his fleet, sailed from Barbadoes for that island, on Saturday last, the 2d of June, but it is said, hearing of its surrender, he stood back again; but, no particulars of the terms on which Tobago surrendered have been yet received. The Hector of 74 guns, one of de Grasse's squadron, is at into Grenada, with the loss of her fore-castle, bowsprit, and head, which damage she received by running foul of the Cesar; one of the same fleet.

The St. Kitt's Gazette of the 13th of June, says, "We hear nothing further from Tobago, but that the island is positively in the hands of the French, who, however, are under apprehensions of being attacked, since they have not received the reinforcements which they conceive necessary to keep possession of it."

From the London Papers, July 24.

Bayonne, July 3. The armament from Cadix will sail this week. Some think it is destined for Gibraltar, supposing it would have been more convenient to have fired it out at Barcelona, if it was intended for Minorca; but we rather think the Court of Spain does it as a feint, and, all things considered, it is generally believed here, and at Madrid, that it is going to attack Port Mahon.

Utrecht, July 16. The Emperor having quitted the Hague, continued his journey under the title of Count de Falkenstein, and arrived at Leyden the 12th, at eleven o'clock in the morning.

He alighted from his carriage, and went to the Academy, where Professors Pessel and Allamand received him, and showed him the Botanic garden, the Cabinet of Natural History, and that of Physics. From thence he went with these Professors to the Anatomical Theatre, where the fine Physiological preparations of the late Albinus attracted much of his attention. Afterwards he visited the Public Library, went to the house of the Sieur Allamand, saw his fine collection of surgical instruments; from thence to the house of Dr. Tak's widow, and saw the collection of pictures the Doctor left behind him. He then went and dined at the Golden Lion. At three o'clock this illustrious traveller, accompanied by the same Professors, went on foot to the garden of the widow Schudman, daughter of the Sieur Stekheven, gardener to his Imperial Majesty, to whom this garden formerly belonged, where he saw, among other things, an American aloe. At four o'clock the Emperor got into his carriage, and arrived at nine in the evening at Haarlem, and lay at the sign of the old Golden Lion. Next morning he arose at five, and went to the Great Church, where Sieur Raddeker had the honour of playing the organ before him. At his return to his apartments, several persons of distinction, of both sexes, came to pay their respects to him, after which he set off in his carriage, and arrived on Saturday evening at Amsterdam.

L O N D O N.

Though this reports circulated relative to our India affairs are exceedingly unfavourable, yet we can assure our readers that no official dispatches are received relative to the loss of Madras. That Hyder Ally was besieging Wandewash when the last accounts came away, is certain, and it is also certain that Sir Eyre Coote had collected a formidable army, and was upon his march to attack him. The event of a battle, though it should even turn out unfavourable, would not immediately occasion the loss of Fort St. George, as it is well known it always contains stores and provisions enough for a six months' siege, and the works and situation of the place have been deemed almost impregnable.

No advices from the West Indies or America were received at the public offices, when this paper went to the press, but hourly expected.

Our intelligence of last week, both from the East and West Indies, is by no means favourable; and it is but too visible, that our squadrons in both quarters are inferior in number to the enemy.

It is likewise evident, that Sir George Rodney did not know the force of Mont de Grasse, else he could not have expected that Admiral Hood could have prevented the French convoy from getting into Martinique; but it seemeth, our rulers imagined that a part of de Grasse's fleet was intended for North America, and that Admiral Hood might cope with the remainder; but the Americans will be soon convinced that their great and good ally has an interest to regard, which he has more at heart than procuring liberty and independence to the United States.

No official accounts are yet received from Tobago; nor has any thing further transpired respecting Madras, in the East Indies.

The East-India Company have this day received advice of the capture of one of their outward-bound packers, and it is feared with all their private signals and dispatches. This news comes by the way of Olfend, and is said to be brought by Captain Mackenzie, late in their service, but now commanding a ship in the service of Russia.

We are very sorry to inform the public, that there is but too great reason to believe that Hyder Ally has made himself master of Cuddalore, Fort St. David's, Pondicherry, Wandewash, Trigar, and every fort between St. David's and Madras.—Morn. Post.

Hyder Ally's camp was fixed the 6th of January, (agreeable to the French accounts) upon the Red Hill, about three miles from Pondicherry, where Lieutenant Coote (now General Sir Eyre Coote), had his camp, last year against that fort, and Sir Hector Munro this year. It extended near nine miles from the brow or top of the hill southward. These accounts also affirm Hyder's army to consist, on the 6th of January, of about 40,000 cavalry, 2000 artillery, including Lascars, consisting to guns, &c. and 80,000 infantry. We believe the Company's accounts agree with this; so that this army consisted of 122,000, perhaps upwards.

The report of five India ships being taken, arises from the account received by the Company, which says that six French line-of-battle ships were standing into Madras Road; but surely, though there were a number of the Company's ships in the road, the Company's servants would rather destroy them than let them fall into the hands of the enemy.

It is surprising with what little attention some people catch at and repeat news. It has been frequently repeated in some papers, that the five India ships captured on the coast of India were part of Commodore Johnstone's convoy; whereas a moment's reflection must convince any one, that Commodore Johnstone's squadron can scarcely have reached the Cape of Good Hope.

Yesterday some dispatches were received from New-York, brought by the Thames and Confederacy frigates, but they contain nothing more than duplicates of what has been already received.

Above 70 sail of merchant ships from New-York are arrived under convoy of the Confederacy, an American prize lately taken, which turns out as fine a vessel as ever swam. By this fleet there are many letters and passengers. They left New-York the 14th of June, when an express had arrived from Lord Cornwallis, giving an account that such was the prevalence of English guineas, that he had plenty of every thing, and had been furnished with horses more than sufficient to mount every man in his army, and the three or four hundred over he had dispatched to New-York, thinking they might be wanted there.

There are several passengers arrived that had lately been prisoners at Boston, by whom we have the following advices: they left Boston on the 1st of June, and the Alliance rebel frigate, that was the convoy to M. de la Fayette, from Port L'Orient to America, had not been heard of at Boston on the 1st of June, nor at the Delaware on the 12th, she was therefore given up for lost, or either taken or foundered. The Death, another rebel frigate, lay at Boston a dead log, for want of men, and every body lamenting that their naval force was at an end.

A letter received on Saturday, by an eminent broker in the city, mentions, that a French ship of war, cruising off the Cape of Good Hope, had captured an Imperial East-India-man, and carried her into that port; that the Captain of the Indiaman claimed the protection of the Dutch, as he deemed the conduct of the French Captain a gross insult to the Imperial flag, but the Dutch refused to interfere.

It is almost impossible that Commodore Johnstone should have lost two of his convoy; he dates his dispatches from St. Jago the 30th of April, was not then ready to sail, and could not reach the Cape in less than a month; and if he doubled the Cape without any stop, and continued his voyage to the East Indies, he can scarcely have arrived there at this day. How then is it possible that any intelligence could be received from him?

An order has been sent from Lord Hillsborough's office, for bringing Curson and Governour, whom we sometime ago mentioned to have been confined by command of Sir George Rodney and General Vaughan, for having carried on a traitorous correspondence with the enemy at St. Eustatia, to town to be confined in Newgate to take their trial for the crime of high treason. The whole circumstances of their case, and all their correspondence has been submitted to the inspection of the Attorney and Solicitor-General; and they consider the offence in so serious a light, that a direct refusal has been given to a petition presented from Mr. Curson to be indulged with the privilege of giving bail for appearance on account of the ill health which he has experienced on board the Vengeance, where he and his colleague have been for some months confined, and which is now lying at Spithead. It has been discovered, from an inspection of their papers, that Mr. Adams, the celebrated negotiator to Holland, was the man with whom they held their illicit correspondence; and it is said that the appearance of proof against them has turned out much stronger than was originally supposed.

Rider, who has been apprehended on suspicion of communicating secret information to our enemies, is to be tried by a Court-Martial, it having appeared, that he has his name on the ship's books as a Midshipman, and the famous Lutterloh, who has been some time under the custody of Mr. Mann, one of the King's messengers, has this day given bail to appear against this second associate, as a principal evidence on his trial.

The Lords of the Admiralty have ordered two ships to sail from the Nore weekly, with the coasting trade to the North; the Captains of which are instructed to take the utmost care of all vessels putting themselves under their protection.

Admiral Duple's fleet consists only of the Prince George of 98, Canada of 74, Lion of 64, and Perseverance frigate of 38 guns, with which he is to proceed immediately to America.

There are now at Portsmouth six sail of the line, and from Chatham and the river four sail more, all which will make up a fleet for any extraordinary purpose.

A frigate is arrived at Portsmouth, which, in the Channel, fell in with seven sail of Russian men of war, and a fleet of merchantmen, (Danes) which most probably gave rise to the report of seven sail of Dutch men of war, and a fleet of merchantmen, under their convoy, being in the Channel.

It is said that Admiral Darby's fleet, when he has been joined by other ships ordered for that purpose, will consist of 36 sail of the line, besides frigates, fireships, &c.

A report prevailed this morning that the French fleet was returned to Brest.

Yesterday the following ships arrived at their moorings in the river, being part of the Jamaica fleet from Leith Roads, viz the Little Carolina, Everton; the Peter and Bridget, Christianfon, from Norway; the Hopewell, Coates; the Sisters, Webster; the Concord, Cliton; and Lady Juliana, Seale.

Wednesday evening two covered waggons, escorted by a party of the guards, were sent off from the Treasury, laden with money for Portsmouth, to be put on-board the ships sitting out there for America, for the payment of our troops on that continent.

Yesterday it was reported that a ship is arrived at Falmouth, which brings an account that the troops under Gen. Greene and Fayette, on the approach of Lord Cornwallis with the troops under his command, refused to engage, laid down their arms, and surrendered prisoners of war; but no official account of this event is received.

EDINBURGH.

Extract of a letter from London, July 24.

"Advice was this day received, that the Dutch fleet sailed from the Texel northward on Thursday the 19th instant, with a large fleet of merchantmen under their convoy. The English Admiral, Parker, was also cruising off Norway, waiting the return of the homeward-bound Baltic fleet, which was to sail from Ellines on the 17th instant; as the Dutch left the Texel for the same place, an engagement between the two fleets is thought to be unavoidable; and the Ministry are every hour in expectation of having an express containing advice of this important event.

"The force of the Dutch fleet is, two ships of 74 guns, two of 68, four of 64, two of 54, and one of 44, besides several frigates of force.

"Sir Henry Clinton has certainly written home, that unless a reinforcement of at least 10,000 men is sent him, it will be impossible for the British troops to do any thing effectual against the rebels.

"The foreign mails all speak of the French having attacked St. Lucia; and some of them even go so far as to say, that the island actually surrendered to the enemy. But the truth is, the French did attack the place, and found it too strong for them to persevere in their design, upon which they evacuated the island, and retreated to Martinique.

"A report is very current, that Lord George Germaine will be called to the Upper House, before the meeting of Parliament, by the title of Lord Drayton, upon which it is said, that Lord Shelburne will succeed him in his office as Secretary of State for the American department; and that Colonel Barre will be appointed his Secretary; the fact, however, is by no means generally credited, as a thing likely to take place.

"A Russian fleet of seven ships of the line were in Copenhagen Roads on the 23d of June; and it was expected, that they would soon be joined by six more of the line belonging to that power.

"Advice was this day received, that the last packet which sailed from the East-India Company for India, not thinking that the Dutch were apprized of the war between them and England, most unfortunately ventured to put into the Cape of Good Hope, upon which he was seized by the enemy, who had been informed of the war through the intelligence of De la Motte. His papers being seized, the Dutch became acquainted with the intention of Governor Johnstone's expedition, by which his success will probably be frustrated.

"The French have taken a packet with dispatches from Bengal to Europe, and carried her into the Cape. The same which, in the service of the Dutch, was dispatched from the Cape on the 5th of April, for Ceylon, with advice of the war, and of the approach of Commodore Johnstone, whose attack was expected to be against that island.

"The Dutch in the East Indies were advised of the war by a French frigate, which arrived at the Cape about the middle of March, in consequence of which four Dutch ships from China were unladen, and every precaution taken for defence, in case of an attack.

"On the 5th of April, a vessel was also dispatched from the Cape, with advice for Batavia. The Dutch still keep the usual flag flying at the Cape, by way of a decoy for English vessels, who may not be advised of the war. A French ship of the line, and a frigate, are stationed off the Cape to conduct in those that may unfortunately come in their way.

"On the 1st of January, the Grabby, the Hardwick, the Earl of Oxford, Sandwich, and Britannia, left Mocha for Europe, and were supposed to take their passage through the Straits of Malacca, and to intend to rendezvous off the Head of Acheen. A French ship of the line and two frigates were stationed at the rendezvous, by the last accounts from Madras.

"The Storment, York, London, Belborough, Lafcelles, Atlas, and Bridgewater, were to leave China before the 10th of February; and it was supposed they would take their passage through the Straits of India, or of Bally.

"The Grand Duke of Tuscany, a ship from Bengal, under Tuscan colours, is seized at the Cape by the French, where he will be condemned, having a cargo on board on account of the English. She was insured at Lloyd's Coffeehouse for about 10,000l."

Thursday last, the Noblemen and Gentlemen's subscription purse of Fifty Guineas, was run for over the Sands of Leith, and won by

Sir John Kay's bay horse Reaper,	3	1	1
Lord Haddo's bay horse Leapfrog,	1	2	dr.
Captain Parkhurst's brown horse Ovid,	2	dr.
William Murton's bay horse Stanton,	4	3	2

This race afforded excellent sport.

Yesterday, Sir Laurence Dundas's purse of Fifty Guineas was won by Captain Parkhurst's Hazard. No other horse having started against Hazard, he cantered over the course.

The race this day, for the Noblemen and Gentlemen's Subscription Purse of Fifty Guineas, was in the same predicament with yesterday's race; no horse having started but one, viz. Cygnet, belonging to William Baird, Esq.

Though the capital races, this week, have afforded but little sport, the in-pits, which were daily continued, have compensated, in a great measure, for the disappointment the company received. They were all, except this day's, well run, and gave much satisfaction.

This day, between the heats for the in-pits, two gentlemen rode so furiously against each other, that the one had his arm broke, and the other his jaw bone, and was otherwise so much bruised, that though he had the immediate assistance of two eminent surgeons, he lies without hopes of recovery. This last gentleman is Mr Camerlet, who succeeded Mr Angelo as Riding Master in the Royal Academy, Nicolson's street.

His Grace the Duke of Montrose has lately made a donation of fifty pounds Sterling to the Society of Scots Antiquaries. It must give pleasure to observe, at a period when some well meaning men are perhaps too anxious concerning the present state of this country, the most accomplished and dignified characters, instead of entertaining dismal apprehensions, giving liberal pecuniary aids to an association whose object is not politics, but literature, and the ornamental honours of the British empire.

Thursday last, a fine field of wheat was cut down at the Abbeyhill, in the neighbourhood of this city. The harvest is expected to become general in eight or ten days, if the weather continues as favourable as it has been for some time past.

Wednesday last, were committed to the tolbooth, by warrant of the Sheriff, John Anderson, calling himself a travelling apman, and Anne Stewart, spouse to Thomas Stewart shoemaker, who made his escape. From some bundles which were found in their custody, they are suspected of being concerned in a gang of shop-breakers, who lately made considerable deductions in that way, both in this city and Glasgow.

On Monday last, one James Cunningham, a tailor, in Old Patrick, having gone into the river Clyde to bathe, near at place, went beyond his depth, and was unfortunately drowned. His body was found some evening.

On Sunday last, two houses in the parish of Balfron, were fortunately burnt to the ground, with their whole furniture. The family having gone to church, left two children to take care of the houses, who were with some difficulty got out alive.

Wednesday, a boat of fresh herrings arrived at the Broomie, (the first this season) and were sold at two-pence a-piece. Another boat arrived in the afternoon, which were sold at 1pence.

The Cochrane, Captain Tolson, of Glasgow, upon her passage from Charleston to Virginia, was attacked the 12th of April by the Minerva privateer of Virginia, mounting 10 guns, and manned with 58 men. The Minerva, however, after having 5 of her men killed, and upwards of 20 wounded, and having her main-mast, struck in less than 15 minutes.—Five days thereafter, the Cochrane, proceeding with her prize, was attacked by the Fair American privateer of Philadelphia, mounting 16 guns, and manned with upwards of 100 men, which she obliged to sheer off, after an engagement of three hours, and after having killed her Captain and several of her crew, and wounded a number more.—The Cochrane, on leaving Charleston, had only 21 seamen, and 12 passengers in eight of whom were wounded in both engagements.

The Patty, Marquis, Katie, Bowie, Bobby, Fleck, any, Wyllie; and Cornwallis, McKinlay, are arrived in the, from New York; which place they left on the 14th, company with the Sandwich packet, and a fleet of merchant-ships, for Europe.

The Neptune, Spears, from Clyde, is arrived at Antigua; also the Glasgow, Thomson, from Clyde, at Barbadoes. A letter from Jamaica to a gentleman in this city, arrived by a vessel at Liverpool, dated May 6, 1781.

The packet, the London and Cork Beets are arrived.

A letter from Portsmouth, Virginia, dated the 23d May, to a gentleman in New York, and by him transmitted to his friends in Glasgow.

With respect to the operations of the army, Lord Cornwallis, a few days before the reinforcement arrived from New York, had joined the troops at Peterburgh, and much about the same time General Leslie arrived. The troops that came last from New York proceeded up James River immediately, and landed the 43d regiment. Last night, General Leslie came to Portsmouth with the Auspach and 17th regiment; and to-morrow part of the 76th and 80th regiments, that were left here, with some of the Queen's Rangers, go up James River, to join their respective corps. Lord Cornwallis, with the light infantry, 76th, 80th, Queen's Rangers, Yagers, &c. and the army which came along with him, (said to be about fifteen hundred men) last Thursday, left Peterburgh, and crossed the river on his way to Richmond, near which place the Marquis de la Fayette is said to be posted, with a considerable force, and is said to have thrown up some works, with an intention to give his Lordship battle. The destruction of his army, I hope, is nigh at hand.

"Lord Cornwallis's army brings the good news of the total destruction of Greene's army, at Camden, by Lord Rawdon, and the most favourable accounts of the disposition of the people in the Carolinas. The accounts are very flattering, and now encourage us to hope they will be attended with happy consequences; yet repeated disappointments forbid too sanguine determinations.

"The people on James River are in a most deplorable situation. Those of the first fortunes are reduced to the greatest distress. The fine estate of Brandon has only got two negroes left, and most of the others in the same predicament.

June 1. "Since the above was wrote, General Arnold is returned to this place, and, I believe, goes with the fleet to New York. Lord Cornwallis, by the last accounts, was at Richmond: The Marquis de la Fayette had fled. The army are now mostly all mounted on horses, and there is not the least appearance of a post being kept on James River. We are strongly fortified in this quarter."

COCOA NUT DUTY.

EXCISE OFFICE, EDINBURGH, JULY 25. 1781.

BY an act of Parliament lately passed, it is enacted, "That all and every dealer in or seller of coffee, tea, cocoa-nuts or chocolate, and all and every other person and persons whatsoever, who, in trust for them, or for the use, benefit, or account of them, or any or either of them, shall have in his, her, or their custody or possession, in any place whatsoever, upon the 5th day of July 1781, any parcel or quantity of COCOA NUTS, shall, on that day, or within ten days next ensuing, give a true and particular account thereof in writing, at the next office of Excise, within the limits of which he, she, or they shall then respectively inhabit; upon pain to forfeit the sum of FIFTY POUNDS for every such offence, and also the cocoa-nuts, of which no account shall have been given, which shall and may be seized by any officer of Excise, and within three months afterwards shall pay down the duties by that act payable for such cocoa-nuts (being at the rate of 1 s. 6 d. per lb.
with 10 per cent. on the amount thereof) to the proper officer for receiving the same, on pain of forfeiting double the sum of the duty which should have been so paid, as aforesaid." It is also enacted, "That if any such dealer, or other person possessed of any Cocoa Nuts in trust, or the use of a dealer, &c. shall refuse to permit or suffer the officers for the inland duties upon Coffee and Tea, upon request, in the day time, to enter into any dwelling-house, or place belonging to any such dealer, and to take account by weighing, or otherwise, as shall best ascertain the true quantity thereof, or shall refuse to assist the said officers in weighing the said Cocoa Nuts in hand, or shall oppose, obstruct, or hinder any officer for the said inland duties in the due execution of the powers by that act given, he, she, or they shall respectively forfeit TWENTY POUNDS for every such offence: And if any dealer, or other person, having in his, her, or their custody or possession any Cocoa Nuts chargeable by that act with the duties as aforesaid, shall clandestinely remove, or carry away, or cause or suffer to be removed, or carried away, the same, or any part thereof, before the duties shall have been charged thereon, or shall fraudulently conceal or hide, or cause or suffer to be concealed or hid, or shall not produce to the inspection of the officer for the said duties all such Cocoa Nuts; that then, and in every such case, every person so offending shall forfeit and lose the sum of FIFTY POUNDS, and also all the Cocoa Nuts so clandestinely removed, or carried away, or fraudulently concealed or hid, shall be forfeited, and shall and may be seized by any officer for the inland duties; and the person in whose custody such Cocoa Nuts shall be found, who shall not, before the discovery thereof, give notice at the next office of Excise of the quantity of Cocoa Nuts so in his or her custody, shall also forfeit and lose the sum of TWENTY SHILLINGS for every pound weight of such Cocoa Nuts."

The COMMISSIONERS or EXCISE have thought it proper to give this public NOTICE of the foregoing clauses of the late act of Parliament "for repealing the duties payable upon Chocolate made in
